Last week I made a couple of revisions to my music taste model, so I thought I'd post my work in progress for anyone who's interested. I've been using a modified version of the algorithm already for some time, but this time I was able to include it in the rules engine and I know, from my own experience, what it does to a band's popularity. It's still a long way from being able to listen to a band and say "this is popular" or "that's unpopular", but the algorithm can be used to check what does and doesn't work. For example, you can play some music from a genre and see what works and what doesn't. How does this work? I'll give you an example, basically you can see if a band falls into two categories. Here are the rules: The algorithm uses an interaction list to check every artist, see which artists they're following and against which artists they're most following. It also calculates the number of artists being followed and the number of artists being followed against it. Then we have a couple of parameters: I think it's important to underline here that the algorithm is creating one big list of artists it follows, not simply generating a popularity ranking of artists. First let's look at artists with a higher margin of popularity between the artist and the followers. For example, here's the list of artists with a margin of popularity higher than 0.2: 1. Amar Akbar Anthony 2. Uriah Heep 3. Dan Reed Network 4. Steve Miller Band 5. Jeff Wayne 6. Flash Floyd 7. Buffy St. Marie 8. Steve Morse Band 9. Small Faces 10. Sigma 9. The Persuasions 11. Supernaturals 12. Electric Light Orchestra 13. Steve Hackett 14. The Bar-Kays 15. The Jam 16. Pat Metheney 17. Bloodstone 18. Cozy Powell 19. Fine Young Cannibals 20. Little Feat 21. Christopher Cross 22. Smokie 24. Roxy Rock 26. Procol Harum 29. Lou Gramm 30. Herb Alpert 31. Kiki Dee 32. Elton John 33. Kerensky 34. The Hellacopters
